ANA Launches Online Job Service

The American Numismatic Association (ANA) announces the launch of its interactive job board focused on providing its members—and the collecting community—with an easy-to-use and highly targeted resource for online numismatic employment connections. The ANA Job Board can be found at www.money.org/job-board.

Both members and non-members from the collecting community can use the ANA Job Board to reach qualified candidates. Posting a job is easy. Employers simply complete the brief form, upload the job description and the job listing will be posted within two business days. Listings are free for all employers through June 30, after which regular rates will apply: $50 for ANA members, and $100 for non-members.

For job seekers, the ANA Job Board is a free service that provides access to employers and jobs in the numismatic industry. Job seekers can browse and view available jobs based on their criteria and level of interest.

Take advantage of the ANA Job Board to find the best employer and candidates for hire. For additional information, contact Deborah Muehleisen, the ANA's marketing and communications director, at dmuehleisen@money.org.

The American Numismatic Association is a congressionally chartered, nonprofit educational organization dedicated to encouraging the study and collection of coins and related items. The ANA helps its 25,000 members and the public discover and explore the world of money through its vast array of instructional and outreach programs, as well as its museum, library, publications and conventions.
