Thomas Family Foundation Continues Generous Support of American Numismatic Association Summer Seminar Scholarship Funds

Scholarships will now be awarded to both adults and young collectors

More coin hobby enthusiasts have a chance to receive a scholarship to attend the renowned American Numismatic Association (ANA) Summer Seminar event. Thanks to the generous support of the Thomas Family Foundation, the ANA is excited to announce the continuation of its grant program. After a successful first year, this opportunity now invites both Young Numismatists (ages 13-17) and adults (18+) to apply to attend Summer Seminar. This annual two-week event offers a chance to explore the fascinating world of numismatics through hands-on learning and unforgettable experiences.

The grant opportunity invites applications for the 2025 Summer Seminar (money.org/summer-seminar), the premier educational event in the hobby, which is held on the Colorado College campus adjacent to ANA headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colorado. Two week-long sessions are scheduled for June 21-26 and June 28-July 3, offering an immersive experience for participants.

The grant provides funding for full and partial scholarships. Applicants will be selected based on a combination of need and merit, ensuring that deserving individuals have the opportunity to enhance their numismatic knowledge.

To apply for this grant program, applications are available at money.org/ana-summer-seminar-scholarships. The deadline for submitting applications is January 31, 2025, and all materials must be postmarked by this date.

For additional information or inquiries, interested parties can contact the ANA Seminars Department at (719) 482-9848 or via email at seminars@money.org.
